FOREWORD

THIS year marks the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of our State, for in 1634 a band of earnest settlers led by Lord Baltimore founded the little town of St. Mary's.

We are trying to portray for you a little of the life of those early people by the colored pages which you will find at the beginning of each section of our ROCKET.

You will find the classes headed by an old print; the sports section is preceded by a lovely conception of the hunt; and many other interesting features are to be found as you glance through.

We have tried to make this book an annual of the students, for the students, and by the students. We extend it to you now, hoping that in scanning these pages, you will be interested in the value of our school and will be reminded of the greatness of our State, founded three hundred years ago.

L. FLETCHER SCHOTT

Mr. Schott is our highly esteemed principal, who has just completed his ninth year in the piloting of students in their high school careers. Most of us will remember him for the interesting Problems of Democracy classes in which he taught us. He has really made Rockville High School what it is, having founded the Citizenship Society, thus giving our school the name of "The School for Citizenship."

We wish for Mr. Schott much success in the future, hoping that he will lead many other pupils through school-life as well as he has guided us, and wishing for him as much respect and admiration from future students as he has won from us.

To

LOREN FLETCHER SCHOTT, JR.

*"Earnest and sturdy, honest and sweet
This little lad stands where two pathways meet
Just stepping from babyhood into the joy
That comes only once—the years of a boy."*

To the manly characteristics of Loren Fletcher Schott, Jr., which this poem so well expresses, this issue of the ROCKET is most fondly dedicated. All that knew him found him to be a loyal little friend, and the high ideals of boyhood which he portrayed are fitting examples long to be held in memory.

Senior Poem

*Four bright years are gone now,
And faded away;
Our school days are over,
And ended today.
And now we must leave you,
We're saying good-bye,
We surely will miss you,
Our dear Rockville High!*

*Those years have been happy
We've known work and play,
We've passed through gay pleasures,
And sorrows each day.
We've met many classmates
In the years now gone by,
And we surely will miss them,
And old Rockville High.*

*Those hideway nooks,
Where we used to abide,
Those difficult books
On the shelf side by side
Are mem'ries we'll cherish,
Although the years fly,
And we surely will miss them
In old Rockville High.*

*The years that are coming
Will part us, we know
And build up a wall
That ever will grow.
But though they construct
A wall great and high,
We hope you will miss us
In old Rockville High.*

Class Prophecy

I HAD just turned over in my bed in the Governor's Mansion of the fifth district of Mars, when a dreadful roaring over my home let me know that there was no more sleep in store for me.

I got up and I looked out of the window and saw the latest 1954 model of the P. P. P. (Planet-to-Planet Plane) launched at my front door.

A red-headed gentleman stepped out, helped out a charming lady, and then came up to the door. I opened it and began, "How do you — well, Jimmy! Of all people!"

Yes, it was James White, the old president of the Rockville Junior Republic and present ruler of Saturn.

"My wife and I have just stopped by to take you for a ride in my new plane," said Jimmy. I turned and saw dear old Hester Vetter smiling up at me.

"Just a minute," I replied. "It's right warm today. I'll put on my sun-proof dress."

I was ready in a jiffy and soon Jimmy, Hester, and I were making our way to Venus.

"Booty Wilson, Helen Howard, Lorraine Dronenburg, and Joe Henderson are living over here," said Hester. "Joe's running for dictator. Booty is Secretary of Ballot-Box Stuffing, so I think Joe will win."

"What are Helen and Lorraine doing?" I asked, eager to learn the fate of my former classmates.

"Well, of course, Helen is married to a handsome brunette and living peaceably at home. Lorraine is Netro-Holdwyn-Gayer's leading star. Television has offered her a contract, but she prefers the screen. Helen was television's chief crooner before she married Bill."

"Do any other of our classmates live here?" I eagerly inquired, as our plane gracefully landed on Venus.

"Oh, yes! Marian Lohr and Emma Wootton are teaching the Venusites basketball. Hope Isherwood gives lessons on how to avoid catching one's teeth in the baskets. You see, these people are so tall that their mouths come up to the top of the baskets. There are some others here, but I'll let you see them for yourself."

We went first to Venus' leading department store. The first person I saw was Dorothy Creamer who was giving free lectures on reducing. She was explaining the mystic properties of Thinno, but few people listened since the Mae West vogue was still dominant.

Anne Bailey was speaking on the new bridge system. (Incidentally, Anne and her sister, Betty, were the champion contract players of the universe, so quite naturally, there was a huge crowd around her.) We stopped long enough to say "Hello" and to learn that Grace Baker was in the next aisle, explaining the value of cosmetics.

We listened to Grace for a short time and then we went out to lunch. Who do you suppose was running the restaurant? None other than Bill Floyd and Joe Starkey. They even had a floor show on during the lunch hour! We discovered that Naomi Will was among the chief entertainers. Naomi played the violin, sang, danced, whistled, performed acrobatic stunts, put on a one-man minstrel show, and acted as Mistress of Ceremonies!

"I think it would be grand to go over to Earth and see how many of our old classmates are there, don't you, Mae?" asked Jimmy.

"Of course," I replied. So we got into the P. P. P. again and in less than eight minutes were in the United States.

The woman in charge of the airport was none other than our air-minded friend, Anna Hargett, who was operating on sick hippopotami between planes. Dear, dear! So at last Anna was a surgeon.

We inquired about Nick Brewer and found that he was putting on a show at the Gayety. Up to his old tricks!

Of course, we went down to the theatre, where Nick greeted us royally and gave us the best seats in the house.

"Here's some opera-glasses—better than the ones that Joe Henderson used to use on his neighbors. You may need them to recognize some of my entertainers."

We waited breathlessly for the curtain to rise. And when it did, there was a huge pile of roses that covered the entire stage, and there was Jane Oyster reclining in the midst of them, sniffing the buds to her heart's content.

After the first thrill had subsided, the chorus girls, dressed in roses, flitted across the stage. Who were they? Mildred Dorsey, Jane Hoyle, Mae Belt, Minerva Brake, and Ruth Brigham. After a perfectly thrilling dance, a little rose fairy tripped across the stage. Peering through the glass, I discovered Helen Harrison who bowed and said "Good Mawnin" to the audience.

"Do you know that Hilda Page is the dance director?" Hester asked.

"Why no," I replied. "She does a good job, doesn't she?"

We waited the entire length of the show and then we went out.

"We'll ride in this old-fashioned stream-line auto over to the museum," said Jimmie.

On the way over, we were arrested for speeding. We all went to court and waited for a speedy hearing. On the bench, was His Honor, Lloyd Brewer, who had just come in from a late lunch.

When Doity saw Jimmie and had heard his story, he said, "Well, 830 miles per hour is exceeding the limit by five miles. I'll let you go this time, but the next time that a violation of the jurisdiction of the executive body of the city of Rockville occurs, I shall be compelled to pronounce a condemnation of $500 or five weeks in jail."

Glad to get out of court, we walked to the museum. We were directed to the "History in the Making" department and in a glass case we saw many interesting things. There was Ira Ward's speech against the N. I. R. A.; Urcel Edward's curls; Harry Schooley's wiggling ears; Harold Mile's outline of the new banking system; Mozelle Johnson's new system of shorthand; Helen Davis' feet, and Mary Shaw Brown's new book on "Current Problems of Democracy."

Weren't we proud of our classmates! Then we went to the war relics section, and there staring us in the face was the iron nose that Rufus Milor had worn in the last war. We also saw Robert Nichols' armour; (poor old Robert was seriously injured). Yes, even though Rabbi did marry Peggy Reffit, he had to go to war. We heard that he agreed with Mr. Whiteford, that great philosopher, who said, "There's a worse war at home than on the battlefield."

Johnny Waters had also distinguished himself in regard to war.

"You know," said Hester, "I heard that when the call came John was the first to pick up his gun and go. Only he went to the South Pole where he couldn't be found."

As a result, there were John's snow shoes on display in the War Relics Window.

We didn't stay long, for I was anxious to see the old school. There were several of our old friends there. Harry Carter was teaching Trig to his heart's content; William Cross had won the Nobel prize for Physics and was now the head of that department at R. H. S. (Mr. Norris had at last submitted to the charms of the lovely Miss Hershey and was living in a state of matrimonial bliss).

After exploring the wonders of old R. H. S., Hester and I went to a beauty shoppe while Jimmy went driving.

Hester had a finger wave by Clara Penn, who had always been an authority on the subject of wavy locks. Ruth Hunter gave me a delightful manicure and then we both had our faces lifted. The face lifter looked extremely familiar, and I then recognized her as Velma Hammann. What a surprise!

Incidentally, Norman Gettings owned the beauty shoppe and Slack Nicholson was chief hair stylist.

In a few minutes we met Jimmy who had enjoyed a drive around Rockville. As we rode around the city, we saw Katherine Myers, the only woman policeman in the state. Clara Briggs held that honor in Virginia.

We passed a newsstand and saw on sale, "Enduring Feminine Loveliness," the latest book on beauty secrets, written by David Hickerson, who was quite an authority on the subject. Mary Carey was selling the books and already had broken all records, having sold 239 in two minutes.

"I'm still trying to locate Margaret Walker," I confided to Hester. "Do you know where she is?"

"Why, Margaret is queen of Jupiter," she replied. "Several years ago she married King Hobo Guy de Bozo and they are the rulers of the mighty planet of Jupiter. Mary Nancy Spinks is employed as governess of the little Bozos."

"Oh, I see!" I exclaimed. "And where is Hilda Hill?"

"Well, Helen and Hilda Hill both became famous toe dancers and every one thought they were sisters and kept getting them mixed up. Their fan mail got twisted and Helen sued Hilda for reading one of the letters a fan had sent to her. They got in a fight and Hilda sued Helen for assault and battery. They then discovered that they were married to the same man and they both sued each other for alienation of affections. They decided it was useless and they're the best of pals. Frances Ruble was the judge, and was mainly responsible for the reconciliations together with Marcelle Mullican, foreman of the jury.

As we made our way back to the P. P. P., we saw dear old David Goldberg coming down the street with Ellen Kessler. Dave had become a prominent business man, a successful dentist, an astounding lawyer, and a movie producer. He was fearful lest General Johnson's son would arrest him for overwork but I learned that since he was anxious to make up all the time that he had loafed in school, the Blue Eagle authorities would not arrest him.

James, Hester, and I got into the plane and flew back toward Mars. As it landed at my front door, I stepped out, waved goodbye to Hester and Jimmy and went into my office, once more preparing to govern the unruly inhabitants of my dominion.

Class Will

WE, the members of the Senior Class of Rockville High, in view of the fact that we are about to depart from said school, do solemnly request that this, our last will and testament, receive attention and thought, and be minutely carried out.

FIRST: To Mr. Schott, our efficient principal and teacher of problems of democracy, we will our most sincere respect and admiration.

SECOND: To the faculty, we will the following:

To Miss Hall: A happy married life.
To Mr. Whiteford: 2000 lines from everybody.
To Mr. Norris: A perfect class once in a while.
To Miss Hauke: The Key to Citizenship.
To Mrs. Prince: A northern accent.
To Mrs. Vogt: A little white home in Massachusetts.
To Mr. Vogt: A substitute saying for "Shut up!"
To Mr. McClung: A happy summer in Indiana.
To Miss Stover: Another trip to France.
To Miss Edmonds: A new cook-book.
To Miss Sheehan: A Stradivarius.
To Miss Obici: Some students as noiseless as her typewriters.
To Miss Jones: An efficient Sunshine and Shadow Staff.
To Miss Bratt: A successful, sunshiny camp with a good T. A. N.
To Mrs. Holmead: An encyclopedia on history.
To Miss Cockburn: A successful basketball team.
To Mr. Nelson: A quiet home room.

THIRD: We leave to the Juniors our place as Seniors of R. H. S. with the privilege of initiating next year's Juniors.

FOURTH: We will to the Sophomores all our good wishes and also our worldly knowledge, wise and otherwise.

FIFTH: We leave to everyone our sincere regret in leaving this noble institution, and ask that in remembrance, they carry out each of the following bequests:

Lloyd Brewer leaves his E's to Wilson Hawkins.
Anne Bailey leaves her love of typing to Dot Laughlin.
Helen Howard bestows her lipstick upon Mildred Earp.

School Song

(Tune: My Little Girl)

We stand for sportsmanship and play the game upon the square
We back the orange and black.
Our motto is "Play Fair."
Whether in the classroom or upon the field in play,
We'll try to help our school in every way.
We are the school for Citizenship,
We strive to do the right
We stand back of our colors in the fight.

Chorus:

Montgomery High, we're cheering for you, and your team
so brave and true.
Montgomery High, we're cheering for you;
Make that ball go up and through.
Just make the other team work hard, boys,
Do the best that you can do,
Just pitch right in and win the game, boys,
For your dear Montgomery High.

School Yells

Orange and Black, Orange and Black,
These are the colors that we will bac'k
Sis—Boom—Bah, Sis—Boom—Bah
Rockville High School—Rah, Rah, Rah!

STATE OF CARROLL

The Executive Department of the Junior Republic

The Executive Department of the Junior Republic of Rockville High School consists of the President, James White; the Vice-President, Emma Wootton; and eight members of the Cabinet. Mr. Schott is faculty adviser for this branch of the government.

The Secretary of Citizenship, John Waters, supervises the Patrol Company and the Court. He must approve appointments to the Patrol Company and also must approve the promotions and demotions. Another of his duties is to inspect the sanitary conditions of the school.

Dorothy Miller, Secretary of Scholarship, tries to better the grades of those pupils whose grades are low, in order to promote high scholarship throughout the school.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Lorraine Dronenburg, attends to and keeps a record of all the finances of the school and is able to give information on the budget system of our school.

Mollie Waters, Secretary of Publications, supervises all publications got out by the school, including the Sunshine and Shadows and the ROCKET.

The Secretary of Athletics, Charles Garstin, takes care of the athletic equipment, welcomes visiting teams, and generally supervises all athletics.

Attorney General, Joe Henderson, defends the law of the school in all sessions of the School Court.

Anna Hargett, Secretary of Clubs, supervises all the clubs. She develops plans to make them more interesting and also more educational.

These secretaries have accomplished quite a lot for the good of the school and the pupils. Their work is aided by committees, which they appoint to help in their work.

The Courts of the Junior Republic

This year several changes have been made in the Judicial Branch of the Junior Republic. Although the courts are still in their infancy, it is felt that these changes have done much to make the procedure fairer and more orderly.

The Supreme Court has been relatively inactive thus far in its history, acting chiefly as an advisory body to the School Court, which has held regular sessions each Wednesday.

This year the Attorney General has been allowed to prosecute in all cases in which a plea of not guilty has been entered. Heretofore, a defendant was prosecuted only when he had an attorney plead his case.

Also, new punishments have been adopted. A defendant found guilty can now be made to write lines, stay after school, or have his name kept out of any school publication for a specified length of time.

Under these changes the courts are working to improve the conduct in the school.

The courts were made up as follows:

SUPREME COURT—

Chief Justice.....MR. NELSON

Associate Justice.....MRS. HOLMEAD

Associate Justice.....MISS BRATT

SCHOOL COURT—

Chief Justice.....LLOYD BREWER

Associate Justice.....MARY MARGARET SMITH

Citizenship Key Council

The Key Council is the honor society of the school. It was organized during the school year 1931-32 and takes the place of the Citizenship Society from which it was developed. This society, organized under the supervision of Miss Hauke, is the only society to maintain and perfect the morale of the school. As its requirements are high, the membership is relatively small.

Some of the requirements are: an average of C in every subject and on citizenship; to have been a citizen every month of the preceding year, and to live up to the requirements of a citizen during the current year; to have no more than four checks on the report in any one month, and no more than two in any one subject.

R. H. S. Bank

Early in the year of 1928 (February 7, to be exact) our own R. H. S. Bank was organized. Since then it has progressed steadily.

Soccer

The soccer season of 1933 can not be called successful, yet neither can it be called a failure. Mr. Vogt placed a well trained eleven on the field, but Lady Luck didn't favor them.

Led by Billy Cleveland, captain and an outstanding player, they played and defeated Gaithersburg (twice) and Damascus, while they lost to Bethesda, Silver Spring, Sherwood, and Poolesville. The squad consisted of Billy Cleveland, A. Jones, B. Jones, Tom Baker, Wilson Hersberger, Joe Henderson, George Darby, Claude Norris, Rip Harrison, Rufus Milor, Warren Milor, Lambert Durbin, George Starkey, Howard Pepper, and Lloyd Brewer.

The most exciting games were played at home against Gaithersburg and Sherwood. We defeated Gaithersburg 2 to 1 in a thrilling game. Billy Cleveland and Alton Jones were our outstanding players that day.

We lost to Sherwood 8 to 1. Sherwood, Montgomery County champs, had a fight on their hands and the game was not decided until the last half.

Next year, with most of our team returning, we expect a championship team.

Volley Ball

The R. H. S. Volley Ball Team almost hit success "on the nose" this season. The fall of 1933 and '34 put forth a group of girls that after an almost completely successful climb to the top, lost by one point in the final game, making them lose their chance of a tie for second place in the county.

Each girl contributed her every effort toward making the team one known for fair play and sportsmanship, and Miss Cockburn's cheerful encouragement was a big help in the promotion of these qualities in the team.

Margaret Walker, Lorraine Dronenburg, and Frances Rubel constituted a strong second line, each proving what she could do when a ball came at a great force of speed to her from the opposing team. Dot Nicholson and Helen Howard helped the team by playing on both the back line and the second line when they were needed, and they really proved how helpful they could be.

Emma Wootton, Hilda Page, and Marian Cleveland alternated in back line positions and with amazing promptness backed up the other members of the team.

We can't forget to mention little "Tootie" Sudduth, who very willingly played with the team when it was badly in need of an extra player. Also we don't dare forget to mention the manager of the team, Jane Oyster. Jane stuck by faithfully at all the games, and it seems that R. H. S. will probably have a hard time finding another manager like her.

Only three of this year's varsity remain—Dot Nicholson, Marian Cleveland, and Pearl Messer. If R. H. S. has the honor of having Hilma Merry back with the Volley Team next year, it ought to be sure of the road to success.

Rockville High School will miss Emma Wootton, Margaret Walker, Helen Howard, Hope Isherwood, Frances Rubel, Lorraine Dronenburg, and Marian Lohr. Can't they stay in its shelter one year longer?

Boys' Basketball

Due to great coaching and a group of hard-working boys, Rockville was represented in basketball by a fine team. Mr. Vogt's boys won eleven out of seventeen games—a great average.

Rockville opened the season with a victory over Bowie and won five straight games before losing to Mt. Rainier. During these games, Rockville defeated Sherwood 28 to 27 in a thrilling and exciting game.

Probably the greatest upset of the season was Rockville's defeating Silver Spring 16 to 14. This game featured the playing of Lambert Durbin, who scored 11 points.

The Sportsmanship Brotherhood Tournament was played on March 2, with Hyattsville and Silver Spring meeting in the first game, which Silver Spring won 28 to 25. Rockville beat Damascus 44 to 24, Starkey leading the scoring. In the finals Rockville lost to the Taksils 24 to 21, in a heart-breaker for Rockville. Clarke, star and captain of Silver Spring, received the cup from Mr. Schott.

The first squad consisted of Starkey and Wilson, forwards; Darby, center; Ziska and Durbin, guards. The rest of the squad was Doity Brewer, Warren and Rufus Milor, Slack Nicholson, Joe Henderson, and Blacky Stearn.

Next year four of the first squad will return and Mr. Vogt looks for a great season, and hopes to win the championship, instead of finishing second, as they did this year.

Girls' Basketball

The R. H. S. girls' basketball team, though it did try, turned out to be somewhat unsuccessful—a big drop from the team of 1932 and 1933. The varsity try-out consisted of only three of last year's varsity and the remaining girls, with few exceptions, had no knowledge of the fundamentals of basketball. This made it difficult to develop a strong team as was the hope of Miss Cockburn.

The team lost the majority of its games, but took its defeats in a sportsmanlike manner.

Mary Carey, Hilda Page and Eleanor Diamond filled the guard positions. Marian Lohr was formerly a guard, but was transferred to forward position. Eleanor Diamond, post-graduate, played in most of the practice games, though she was not permitted to participate in the league games. Eleanor was more of a help to the team than it can say. Mary Carey and Hilda Page made a pair of guards who really put up a "strong wall" against the opposing team. This is the first year that either has played for R. H. S.

Mildred Earp, Anita Clark, Emma Wootton, Helen Davis, and Lorraine Dronenburg alternated for center and side-center positions. Each of these girls played exceedingly well, and R. H. S. was left wondering why they had not come out in the past seasons for basketball. Everyone knows, of course, that R. H. S. has already had the pleasure of seeing "Earp" playing.

Helen Howard and Marian Lohr complete the line-up as forwards. Both Marian and Helen kept a hard fighting spirit and made every attempt to score. Helen, three years a forward, and Marian, just new to the forward position this year, did the best they could to work up as forwards, and R. H. S. thinks they did!

Ruth Hunter, and Clara Penn came out at the end of the season and offered their help to the team,—Ruth as forward, and Clara as a guard.

Margaret Walker, as manager of the basketball team, was as efficient as one would want a manager to be. The varsity offers its appreciation to Margaret for her faithful "standing by."

Margaret would have made some little basketball player if she had only been able to participate.

Rockville Junior High Boys' Basketball Team

Due to the able coaching of Mr. Norris the Junior High produced a good team this year with a winning percentage of over .500. We came second in the Montgomery Junior High League. Among the teams we played were Damascus, Georgetown Prep, Sherwood, and Takoma-Silver Spring. Of the five regulars only our captain, Jack Ochsenreiter, was a regular of our last year's team, and with the able help of his teammates he managed to lead the point scoring. The pivot play was worked down to perfection by Wade Magruder, and with the aid of Jack Alderson, and our two stellar guards, George Ankney and Russell Ray, we produced a fine looking team. Next year only Wade Magruder will be left on the team as the others graduate this year.

The Junior High Girls' Varsity Team

Miss Cockburn, our athletic coach, moulded into fine shape a team that well represented the Junior High School in basketball. The team had the fine record of winning seven out of eight games. The only defeat handed Junior High was administered by Takoma-Silver Spring, but our girls returned the compliment by defeating them later twice.

The peppy spirit, true sportsmanship, and good fellowship of the team was in evidence throughout the season.

All members of the team hope to make the Senior High Varsity team next year, this being their best year in Junior High. Raw material has a fine opportunity to follow in their footsteps and profit by their splendid example.
